

Law School Life

Roseboro receives President's Award

Executive Director of Admissions & Diversity Programs Greg Roseboro (J.D.'87) (fourth from left) received the President's Fulfilling the Dream Award at UGA's Martin Luther King Jr. Freedom Breakfast. Roseboro is adviser to the Davenport-Benham Black Law Student Association, the Asian Law Students Association, the Hispanic Law Students Association and the Outlaws student organization.

Scholarship recipients meet with Board of Visitors members

Members of the Board of Visitors enjoyed meeting with student scholarship recipients after a fall meeting on campus. Top: Third-year students (l. to r.) Blake Ogden, Chris Collins and Victoria Barker chatted with BOV member Eleanor Banister (J.D.'80). Inset: First-year student Raneem Ashrawi (left) and second-year student Kristin Kennedy Williams pose with BOV member Marlan Wilbanks (J.D.'86).

Jones honored with UGA's Alumni Merit Award

U.S. District Court Judge for the Northern District of Georgia Steve Jones (J.D.'87), pictured with his wife Lillian Kinsey, received the 2018 Alumni Merit Award from UGA. This honor is given to those who bring recognition and honor back to UGA through outstanding leadership and service. Photo by Wingate Downs/Courtesy of UGA Development and Alumni Relations.

Alumnus to donate original artwork to law school

Accomplished artist William Stiles (J.D.'06) is donating 12 pieces of his work to the law school. The hand-painted originals will portray various legal themes and contain references to the School of Law. The new pieces he plans to donate to the school are part of his "Concept Collection," which is inspired by the practice of law and contains excerpts of U.S. Supreme Court opinions in the background.

Black alums show support for law school

The School of Law's African-American alumni and alumnae held a reception focusing on strengthening the law school's black community and discussing opportunities to engage with the school. A keynote address was given by Georgia Supreme Court Presiding Justice Harold Melton (J.D.'91). Attendees (l. to r.) Jarrod Burch (J.D.'04), Dominique Holloman (J.D.'04), Yvette Daniels (J.D.'89) and Ronnie Mabra (J.D.'04) smile for the camera. Photo by MITE Services.

