1	Prof. Cook's a funny professor. Sometimes he can get a bit repetitive, but he just does it for your benefit to make sure everyone is following him. You know ahead of time what day and for what case you'll get called on. Sometimes it's a lot of reading, but you can read it pretty fast since you know you won't get called on to answer questions about the material. But it's a useful course and pretty interesting material.	Feb 20, 2012 2:45 PM
2	Exam consisted of about 100 MC questions... One essay not worth many points. Must know the law, closed book!	Feb 15, 2012 3:01 PM
3	I liked this class okay, but I guess I just didn't catch the Cook fever like everyone else.	Feb 13, 2012 8:22 AM
4	The test is all multiple choice. The teacher calls on students in a row (no socratic) and its just to brief a class. Very interesting course material	Feb 12, 2012 10:01 PM
5	Lots of MCQ on exam. Almost all MCQ. If someone hasn't said it yet- you know exactly when you will be called on, so you have to force yourself to pay attention.	Feb 12, 2012 5:30 PM
6	The exam was actually predominantly MC/True False with only about 12% being an essay.	Feb 12, 2012 4:35 PM
7	Exam was mostly multiple choice, with a small essay section. Cook is very enthusiastic and entertaining.	Feb 10, 2012 10:07 AM
8	The reading load is ENORMOUS in this class. I felt very overwhelmed by the amount of material each night (and the class is three times a week), but I also realized at the end of the course that I had learned a lot. Cook is really friendly and amusing, and he makes the class entertaining. I'll definitely take another class from him.	Feb 6, 2012 7:57 PM
9	The exam is mostly multiple choice, which is an especially bad fit for Crim Pro.	Feb 6, 2012 4:07 PM
10	Cook was a very easy professor in class. He calls on people by rows so you know when you'll be called on and which case you'll have. His exam is closed book and mostly multiple choice hypos with one short essay.	Feb 6, 2012 4:06 PM
11	Exam was roughly 100 multiple choice with one essay...called on by seating chart...always assigns way more pages than you actually cover	Feb 6, 2012 3:34 PM
12	Test was 90% multiple choice in a class were there is not often an absolute answer. Class is impossible to follow. Very easy on the socratic method but you essentially have to teach yourself the material.	Feb 6, 2012 3:30 PM
13	Professor Cook is fantastic. The class is very low pressure, but you will learn the material. His exam is surprisingly tricky given the relaxed class atmosphere, as it has 90 multiple choice questions and an essay. Still, I recommend this class.	Feb 6, 2012 11:05 AM
14	Multiple choice exam with short essay. You know which day you'll be called on. Cook is nice, but scattered and its hard to follow him in class. Study flash cards at the end of the semester and you should be fine for the exam.	Feb 6, 2012 10:56 AM
15	Exam is mostly multiple choice (but that wasn't a survey option). This is just like Cook's evidence class -- no real socratic method, you know when it is your day	Feb 6, 2012 7:48 AM way in advance. The material is interesting, and Cook makes it fun.
