1	best class i've taken in law school	Feb 20, 2012 5:51 PM
2	I really enjoyed this class. It is definitely seminar style and because it's Hashimoto, a lot of people tend to participate (because those are the kinds of people that take her class) so if you miss a day of reading, you're not in any real trouble of getting put on the spot. The subject matter is pretty interesting if you're into criminal law topics. The paper is 10-12 pages and you have to do a 15 minute presentation on your paper topic at the end of the course. 3	Professor Hashimoto is great, but I thought she could have made the subject matter a little more interesting or more relevant by assigning articles rather than teaching from a text. Going out of a textbook made it hard to find a topic to write on, since we didn't know about any of the current issues or problems in sentencing. I also thought we spent a lot of time on paper presentations; I understand the need to get critiques and questions but it seemed like we didn't all need to present 15 minute powerpoints for 10-12 page papers.
